

Furs to FACTORIES

12. McMinn County Living Heritage Museum

This museum includes 30 exhibit areas depicting life in Southeast Tennessee, from the Cherokee Indians and early pioneers through the 1940's. Of special interest on the "Furs to Factories Trail" - the museum houses a collection of tools and household goods from area farms and farm industries as well as artifacts related to Athens history as a county seat and early trade center. The museum is located just off the Historic McMinn County Courthouse Square in downtown Athens. The square has retained much of its character from the time when it was a major farm and trade center.
